Enhancement in ixCrypto Index Methodology

Today, ixAsia Limited ('ixAsia') announced an enhancement in methodology of the ixCrypto Index ("IXCI"), the first cryptocurrencies benchmark index launched in Hong Kong.

Before the enhancement change, if the old constituents after the quarterly index review still cover 75% free float adjusted market capitalization, there would not be reconstitution.

After the enhancement, if there are more than one cryptocurrency which shall be selected as the new constituents according to the market capitalisation ranking and the liquidity screening, but not being so due to the above captioned rule of no changes, a reconstitution will now be conducted to include the new constituents with bigger market capitalisation and meet the liquidity screening according to principles stated in Methodology Paper 3.2-3.8.

The above enhancement will be effective on 6th January 2020 (Monday).

More details about the ixCrypto Index are provided on the ixCrypto Website and the Methodology Paper.
